ANTWERP, BELGIUM: JUNE 17, 2014 - Meeting this morning in Antwerp, the heads of the jewellery and diamond industry's four leading international representative bodies have agreed to establish "The Presidents Forum," which is a joint consultative committee with its members being the presidents of each organisation. Together they will discuss and formulate coordinated strategies and policies for the industry on important issues of common interest.

"As the elected presidents of international organisations, each of which counts among its members the key national organisations and leading commercial bodies in their respective fields, we collectively represent the rank and file of the diamond, gemstone and jewellery industry worldwide."

"The objective of The Presidents Forum is to reflect the interests of all participants and stakeholders in the industry through discussion and coordination."

"Among our first order of business the presidents of CIBJO, WFDB and IDMA will engage with the Precious Stones Multi-Stakeholder Working Group to discuss the creation of acceptable due diligence guidelines to defend the integrity of the supply chain. The President of the WDC will be consulted."
